WANTS BELL ELECTED

STATEMENT BY UNITED STATES SENATOR JOHN D. WORKS

Los Angeles, October 16, 1916.

I am making this statement in behalf of Hon. Charles W. Bell, Independent Republican candidate for congress, Ninth district, under the direct primary law. As Mr. Randall was nominated on the ticket of several political parties, some of which are diametrically opposed to each other on important fundamental questions, there is every reason why there should be an independent candidate who stands for Republican principles and why every Republican should support such a candidate who is in no equivocal position on grave questions affecting the vital interests of the people in the district. Take for example the question of a protective tariff. Mr. Randall declares himself in favor of such a tariff for the protection of industries of his district, but he is the nominee of the Democratic party that is unalterably opposed to it and during his services in the house he trained with the Democratic party and entered and was bound by the secret caucus of that party. He may support a protective tariff bill but the party by which he was nominated is opposed to it and will defeat it if it has a majority of the two houses, and his support of it would be a betrayal of his party.

Let me give just one instance of Democratic action on this subject, so vital to the fruit growers of California particularly, and to all the people of the state who are interested in its prosperity. When the Democrats proposed to repeal that portion of the Underwood tariff law which placed sugar on the free list, and again impose a tariff on sugar, I offered an amendment to increase the tariff on lemons, which the Democrats had reduced to less than a half-cent, to one cent per pound which was a half cent less than the tariff under the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill. This would have given some protection to the fruit growers of California while the Underwood law gives practically none, but Senator Underwood strongly opposed the increase and when it came to a vote every Democratic senator but one voted against the amendment and every Republican but one voted for it. As the amendment was voted down in the senate by Democratic votes it never reached the house of representatives, but everybody knows that the vote would have been the same there. Mr. Randall is a representative of the party that defeated this amendment so vital to the interests of our state. He has acted with that party in the past. He will undoubtedly do so in the future. Why should Republicans support such a candidate? I am utterly opposed to the nomination of any candidate by any other than his own party. A candidate nominated by different parties, opposed to each other on matters of such vital interest, stands in such an equivocal position that he can have no force or standing in congress. If he supports the principles of one of the parties that nominated him he betrays the other. No man maving right ideas of government and the duties of a member of congress would allow himself to be placed in any such position, and if he does, every right thinking voter should feel it his duty to vote against him.

I have known Charlie Bell for something like twenty years. I have disagreed with him about some things and he has disagreed with me. I did not believe in the Progressive party although I am a Progressive Republican and have stood for progressive principles. I have never believed that they could be worked out through the Progressive party and this is now almost universally conceded, and Mr. Bell has returned to the Republican party, together with thousands of others who believe in progressive principles and that they can best be worked out through the Republican party, the rank and file of which is progressive. Mr. Bell is a man of high character and sterling integrity and has shown himself to be an efficient and capable public official in the different offices he has held. He has served in congress with efficiency and has represented the interests of this district with strict fidelity. He stands for the things that are of the utmost importance to the people, not only of this district but of the state. The support of Mr. Bell by both Republicans and Progressives would help wonderfully to unite the two who really stand for the same principles and who should act together, in harmony, for the public good.

I myself have retired from politics except as a private American citizen, and shall soon retire to private life, but as a citizen I am earnestly hoping for the election of Governor Hughes. I would regard the re-election of Wilson as a national calamity. I want to see the election of a Republican senate and house of representatives in order that we may have such legislation as will protect the people of this country when the war in Europe comes to an end and the world-wide industrial war that must inevitably follow, begins. To accomplish this much desired end, the Republicans and Progressives must unite their efforts against their common enemy, the Democratic party. To elect Charlie Bell to congress will be a right step in that direction.

(Signed) JOHN D. WORKS.

Mr. Works is at present United States senator, but is not a candidate for re-election, it being his intention to retire from political activities.

PLANS FOR CIVIC GOOD

E. M. LYNCH, CITY ENGINEER, DESCRIBES WORK OF LEAGUE OF MUNICIPALITIES

E. M. Lynch, city engineer, who returned Monday from the annual convention of the League of California Municipalities, October 10-15 at Visalia, says that all the municipal officials who attended were agreed that the convention was the most progressive and informing of any previously held. There were between 200 and 250 members present. They included many of the principal men in the state and many who had distinguished themselves by their work in important civic centers.

At the same time there were present representatives of most of the smaller cities who profited by this gathering and took away with them ideas and an atmosphere that cannot fail to stimulate the centers from whence they came. Mr. Lynch is of the opinion that it would pay any city to send its paid officials to such a convention and to defray their expenses while there. "I," said Mr. Lynch, "paid my own expenses, and would not ask to do otherwise; but I feel sure that most cities would profit largely by having their officials attend such a convention as part of their duties.

"The atmosphere in such a convention is stimulating. City trustees get a broader outlook from mingling with the big men who are to be found at these conventions. They come back with a distinct gain in new ideas.

"The convention devotes itself to a great extent, to discussing the needs of small municipalities. Among other valuable work in this direction is the appointment of a man who is supposed to go to Sacramento and keep an eye on legislation affecting such municipalities, which is often very essential. A great deal of the work done by the convention is of vast importance to municipalities. The public is seldom aware of what is done, not because it is not made public but because little attention is paid to the reports of the convention's work. It supplies a need that has long been felt.

"The whole of the time spent at the convention is spent in serious matters. Such a convention is no junket. The work opens at 9:30 a. m. and with the exception of a brief interval for lunch, continues till 5 p. m. Then there is an interval for dinner and work is resumed at 7:30 and continues until 11 p. m.

"Such men as Louis A. Handly, president of the board of public works, were among the speakers. Another man whose paper attracted profound interest was M. M. O'Shaughnessy, city engineer of San Francisco. He read a paper on the disposal of city garbage, which was the last thing that could be said on that subject. Hearing such men and coming in contact with them is a most profitable experience.

"Other topics discussed such as street lighting and sewage disposal, were of considerable interest to most of those present. In every way the gathering was profitable and interesting."

Mr. Lynch himself read a paper on "The Necessity of Street Inspection and Tests In Street Improvement Work." This was the subject of much favorable comment. T. W. Watson, city manager of Glendale, spoke at some length on "Civic Forestry." Mr. Lynch says that one of the most valuable pieces of legislation for which the convention has been responsible is the "Excess Property Condemnation Law," which permits a city to condemn odd portions of ground for street improvement purposes when they can be shown to obstruct development.

WEATHER FORECAST—Fair tonight and Friday; heavy fog along coast; westerly winds.

GREEK TROOPS DISPERSE RIOTING MOB

ATHENS IS QUIET TODAY AS RESULT OF ACTION OF MILITARY COMMANDER IN SUPPRESSING RIOTERS

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

ATHENS, Oct. 19.—The mob has been suppressed. The commander of the Greek troops in the garrison here when he heard of the hostile demonstration against the French troops, immediately marched his men into the streets and drove the rioters home. The whole city is now under the charge of patrols of Greek troops. It is likely that the French troops will be withdrawn. King Constantine is said to have ordered anti-ally demonstrations to cease.

CLOSING IN ON GERMANS IN PERONNE

BRITISH AND FRENCH ARE GRADUALLY ISOLATING STRONGLY FORTIFIED CITY FROM GERMAN LINES

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

PARIS, Oct. 19.—It is only a question of a short time before Peronne will fall into the hands of the Allies. Following out their process of exerting a powerful "squeeze" on important points, the British and French have been gradually isolating Peronne. The German defensive lines have been broken up and the encircling forces are now within measurable distance of their objective. The present progress is being made between the villages of Biaches and La Maisonette.

BULGARIANS ARE BADLY DEFEATED

SERVIANS DRIVE CZAR FERDINAND'S MEN BACK ON MONASTIR AND CAPTURE VILLAGE OF BRAD

PARIS, Oct. 19.—In a long continued and very bitter engagement between the Servians and the Bulgarians, which reached its culmination last night, the Bulgars were thrown back along a considerable front and the Servians advanced and secured the village of Brad, which is southwest of Monastir. The Servians are now in a position to make a sweeping advance on Monastir, which has been strongly fortified and surrounded by trenches and entanglements by the Bulgars.

ROBBERS KILL WELLS-FARGO EXPRESS MAN

SIX BANDITS HOLD UP SANTA FE TRAIN AND ROB SAFE AND MAIL AND GET AWAY

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

BLISS, Oklahoma, Oct. 19.—Six bandits held up a Santa Fe train not far from this place this morning. They went through all the cars and cleaned out the passengers, getting quite a lot of booty. The Wells-Fargo expressman made an attempt at resistance and was shot and killed. The express safe was then thrown out and carried away. No arrests have been made, though a posse is out after the bandits.

REPORT SUBMARINE U-53 HAS BEEN SUNK

BRITISH STEAMER NORTH PACIFIC STATES THAT GERMAN UNDERSEA RAIDER IS AT BOTTOM OF OCEAN

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

NORFOLK, Va., Oct. 19.—When the British steamer North Pacific steamed into port here today she brought the news that the German submarine, U-53, had been sunk south of Nantucket. Whether the sinking was accidental or was the work of a British ship has not been ascertained. The accuracy of the report is greatly doubted.

NATIONAL BAKERS FORESEE WHEAT FAMINE

BREAD EXPERTS SAY EXPORT OF WHEAT TO EUROPE SHOULD BE STOPPED AT ONCE

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—Unless an embargo be placed at once on the exportation of flour and wheat to Europe, say the experts, there is certain to be a famine throughout the country before spring. The stocks of wheat and flour are barely sufficient for the necessities of the United States itself. There is no hope of getting aid from Canada, where a blight struck and destroyed a large portion of the crop.

ROUMANIANS VICTORIOUS NEAR CRONSTADT

REPORTS FROM BUCHAREST STATE THAT GERMANS HAVE BEEN DRIVEN BACK ACROSS THE FRONTIER

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

BUCHAREST, Oct. 19.—The Roumanian troops yesterday scored a final triumph in the battle that has been raging for several days south of Cronstadt. The Germans have been thoroughly defeated and are now in full retreat across the frontier at that point. The fighting took place in the Predeal region and was very stubborn.

IN SUBMARINE ZONE

J. B. M'BRATNEY TELLS OF RETURN THROUGH U-53 INFESTED WATERS

John B. McBratney of the Irish Linen store, landed in New York October 10, having sailed from Liverpool on the Cunard liner "Cameronia" for the sake of variety. His desire was granted for the "Cameronia" arrived in American waters while the U-53 was sinking British and neutral ships. Mr. McBratney was abroad more than two months and his experiences are interesting. He writes as follows:

I am opening my letter written on board the Cameronia, that I may tell you of the exciting time we had from Sunday night until Tuesday morning.

When the lights were turned out in the music room at 10 o'clock on Sunday night I idly wondered at them being extinguished so early and made my way back to my cabin and went to bed. Then in the morning I was amazed to see all the lifeboats swung out on their davits, level with the deck, just as they had been for two days off the English and Irish coasts. Making inquiries I found we had been signalled the night before by a tramp steamer and warned of the presence of a German submarine. While we were at breakfast the purser rapped the table to command attention, and as the gay chatter of the passengers suddenly ceased, announced that all passengers were required to carry their lifebelts about with them all day. This created a rather powerful sensation and several of the ladies present arose precipitately, leaving their breakfast half consumed, not to return again. At 10:30 a. m., boat drill was observed, all passengers with their lifebelts on, being required to take their respective stations at the lifeboats upon a signal blown on a bugle.

The decks were crowded that morning, not many passengers remaining below, and I saw more than one white faced woman nervously fingering her beads, her lips moving in repeated prayer. From the stern of the boat we could observe that it was pursuing a very erratic course, the wake of foam left upon the waters resembling a series of S's more than anything else. This was my first experience of "zig-zagging" and it only needed the popping up of a periscope above the surface of the sea to add the final touch of a submarine chase to our experience.

Instead of following the usual lane of ocean travel, our course was altered, causing us to be a few hours later in reaching the dock at New York than we had anticipated.

We all breathed a sigh of relief when we got within the three mile limit, for with a ship crowded with passengers, the large majority of whom were women and children, it was awful to imagine the consequences of a submarine attack.

New York is crammed with baseball "fans" here to see the world's series and the hotels are full up. I tried about a dozen before I could succeed in getting accommodation. It seems good to get back to the states again.

Yours sincerely,
JOHN B. M'BRATNEY.

On Board R. M. S. Cameronia, October 6, 1916.

I am somewhere on the Atlantic, a little more than half way towards New York and it has occurred to me that now that I have time I might write and give you some of my impressions of Ireland received during the busy month that I spent there.

I found it harder to get over to Ireland from England than I had anticipated, and was detained in London an entire week while an "Identity Book" which I was required to possess, passed through the various departments before being finally handed over to me.

On Wednesday night, August 30, I got a telephone message at my hotel informing me that the book was ready for me in the alien office of the Bow street police station, and without delay I hurried down and got it. While there I found that I could not go direct to Belfast from Liverpool without a special permit from the home office, Belfast being classed as a prohibitive port, and that I would need to go via Hollyhead and Dublin.

By the time I got back to the hotel it was close to 8:30 p. m., and making inquiries there I found that the mail train for Hollyhead left at 8:45, giving me fifteen minutes to settle my bill, pack my bags and reach Euston station, about a mile away. With the aid of a "taxi" I got there just in time, and after a six-hour train journey, got aboard the mail boat at Hollyhead. The sun was shining brightly when I landed on Irish soil

DAWN OF CHARACTER

MUTUAL BENEFIT READING CIRCLE DISCUSSES CHILDREN AND POINT OF VIEW

The Mutual Benefit Reading circle met Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Charles H. Toll on Kenneth Road. "The Dawn of Character" was very nearly completed, chapters on "The Dawn of Religion," "Some Different Types of Children," and "The Child's Point of View" being read and discussed. Next Wednesday the few remaining pages will be read, after which a very exhaustive review of the book will be taken. Questions on the text have been distributed among the different members, and each one will come prepared at the next meeting to answer them as well as may be. The next book of the course, "Studies in Child Development," by Julia Clark Hallam, will be begun next week if time permits. If not, it will be commenced on November 1. In addition to this each member has been asked to submit at the next meeting a list of what she considers the best toys, from an educational standpoint, for boys and for girls of different ages. Each member is supposed to be able to fortify her judgment by giving reasons for such choice.

Twenty-five women attended the meeting, among them being Mrs. D. R. Toll of San Diego, a visitor.

The Mutual Benefit Reading circle is conducted under the direction of the Educational committee of the Glendale Federation of Parent-Teacher associations, Mrs. N. C. Kelley, chairman. Mrs. Toll acts as leader for the circle.

FOOTBALL CALL TO ARMS

A meeting of the L. A. county light weight football league was held at L. A. Military academy last evening. Glendale, Pasadena, South Pasadena, St. Vincents and L. A. Military being present. The new league was organized and a complete schedule outlined. There will be six teams in the league and the winners of this league will play the winners of the city league for the championship. The weight of the teams is to be 140 pounds average. Merle Eckles represented Glendale at this meeting. On the 28th Glendale plays Pasadena at Pasadena. All young men up to 150 pounds are asked to come out. For more information see Merle Eckles or call Glendale 1358.

TRAVELOGUE AND MUSICALE

Tomorrow evening, Friday, October 20, at 8 o'clock, at the Congregational church, Third and Central Rev. Fenwick L. Holmes, preacher, traveler and author, will present his travelogue, "Camping In the Yosemite." This lecture will prove to be both entertaining and instructive and will be illustrated with many beautiful stereopticon views. The lecture will be preceded by a musicale. Admission 25 cents. Children 15 cents. Auspices Woman's Auxiliary.

The soloists of the evening will be Mrs. Greely Kolts, who will sing, "Somewhere a Voice Is Calling," by Tate; and Mrs. Cowan, who will sing Lohr's "Where My Caravan Has Rested."

The pictures illustrating the travelogue will be shown by means of a fine and powerful new lantern from the city and not by the old church lantern.

ROBINSON-MARSHALL WEDDING

Hearn W. Robinson, of Robinson Bros. Transfer & Storage company, and Eleanor Marshall of Ramona Park, were united in matrimony, at the Methodist parsonage, Tropico, on Wednesday night by the Rev. Don S. Ford. The witnesses were Miss Flora Salisbury of Los Angeles and C. B. Robinson, brother of the bridegroom. The bride was dressed in a traveling costume and after the ceremony the newly wedded couple went away for a brief honeymoon. They will reside at 122 West Acacia, Tropico. Those present at the ceremony were Mrs. Miller, the bridegroom's mother, Henry Hatcher, C. B. Robinson, Miss Flora Salisbury, Mr. and Mrs. Hartwig, Miss Helen Hirschberger, Miss Mildred Hirschberger, Miss Doris Hirschberger.

DAY OF PRAYER

The Executive Committee of the California Campaign Federation have issued a call for a special day of prayer for California Dry, November 3, 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. The whole state is expected to observe the day according to the program. The several churches of Glendale and the W. C. T. U. will unite in this service. Please keep the day sacred to this cause on behalf of California.

GLENDALE, CALIFORNIA, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 19, 1916

BRITISH-JAPANESE RELATIONS

There is little doubt that there are parties interested in making trouble for the nations of the world. There are many men in all countries who live best in times of trouble and who are anxious to see the nations embroiled with each other. There have been constant suggestions of trouble between Japan and the United States and between Japan and Britain and while there are circumstances that might possibly precipitate trouble between that country and any of these two there are also elements that are working for their continued agreement.

It has been repeatedly stated that the new prime minister of Japan, Count Terauchi, is a military leader and has been appointed head of the government in order to be able to handle the situation in China and the possible complications with foreign nations should they arise. Terauchi is undoubtedly a warrior. He was educated in a military school in France and reached the rank of Major-General in 1894.

Count Terauchi took part in the Saigo rebellion and in the war with China was supervisor of transport. During the war with Russia as war minister he won the admiration of every one who saw the great work he accomplished in that campaign. Laying down the portfolio of war in 1910 Terauchi became viceroy of Korea which he administered in a wonderful manner, literally rejuvenating the land and redeeming the people from laziness and vice.

The new prime minister of Japan to which office Terauchi was appointed a few weeks ago, is an able economist, a disciplinarian, but just and also generous. He is already organizing various departments of the government and striving to create stronger bonds of union between Japan and her ally Britain. On the subject of friendship with Britain he said the other day: "I am not surprised that such a sinister movement as that to create dispeace between Japan and Britain is on foot. However, if any friendship can be shaken by any intrigue it is not firm enough to be real and lasting.

"The alliance between Britain and Japan can in no wise be affected by press agitation. That is what all this talk about Japan's designs in the far East amounts to. Men of intelligence and character in both countries will adhere to and support this alliance with sincerity and in neither country will there be the least misgiving or question as to the real object of the alliance or that it is of great mutual benefit. Already the object and the mutual benefit have been amply demonstrated."

Speaking of the United States the skillful Japanese statesman avoids all exploitation of such questions as may be irritating and expresses the belief in similar manner that there will be no difficulty in coming to an agreement on all subjects that are under discussion between the two countries.

As a matter of fact Japan has a great deal of difficulty on her hands in the China question. Her statesmen are aware that whatever relations she is anxious to establish, there must receive some kind of assent from the other powers of whom the United States is one of the most important. She is not, therefore, likely at this juncture to raise questions that might be embarrassing. Terauchi is certain to lend his influence to seeking an amicable settlement of all subjects of dispute between Japan and the United States.

PREPARING FOR PEACE

War came suddenly in Europe; peace will come probably as suddenly. There are some elements at work to bring about this desirable result. It will be remembered that when there was every indication that the Boer war might be prolonged, the end came with a suddenness that astonished those who were not observing the signs of the times. So it must be believed that peace is going to come one of these days and to find perhaps some persons and corporations on this side of the Atlantic unprepared for it.

Britain is even now making preparations for the handling of the great army of soldiers who will be released from discipline after peace comes. There are 5,000,000 British men under arms at present and they have tasted a freedom that is quite different from their life before the war. There is going to be quite a problem in dealing with this vast army of military men. There is going to be a vast task and an expensive one in the repatriation of these men who have been under the iron discipline of the army and yet have partaken of an unwonted liberty.

It is now being discussed what is to be done with them even as a matter of national economies. Thrown back suddenly on the country they would inevitably upset the balance of things as they are. Arangements are therefore being made to house the Kitchener army in northern France for some time after peace has been declared allowing only small bodies of men to cross the channel at a time.

As the demobilized soldiers cross the channel they will be disposed of most systematically. In one of the largest club buildings in London, commandeered for the purpose, there is being prepared a card index of every soldier, showing his history, qualifications and business training. When the army disbands Britain expects to know exactly what human resources she possesses and she is determined to use these toward rebuilding her world trade.

In conjunction with the card indexing of the soldiers some of the Empire's greatest organizers are making a survey of the factories, wholesale houses, shipyards and all businesses requiring labor. The number of men needed for each will be accurately charted and when the time comes the ex-soldier will be offered immediate employment.

How well Britain is anticipating the future can only be conjectured, for very few persons know the extent of the plans. However, a good indication of how determined the effort is was shown in the commandeering of the National Liberal Club building. The announcement of this act on the part of the government came like a thunderbolt to the club members. They were indignant until the president of the club explained that Britain wanted their premises to care for the future of the men who were facing death in France. The protestors left the building after a patriotic demonstration. That was a much greater sacrifice than we on this side of the Atlantic can understand. Those clubmen were attached to their building by sacred traditions and even the most liberal of British politicians are conservative. However they threw overboard their prejudicies to make room for the consolidation of Britain's trade.

It will inevitably be the case that the war will collapse with astonishing suddenness. As yet it has not run its three years' course prophesied by Kitchener. It probably will last that time, but next spring should see so great a change in some of the belligerents that the end must come. Then is to be faced the problem of paying the cost. Britain is determined to be ready for the commercial struggle that is certain to succeed the war. In preparing for peace Britain has gone far ahead of any of the other nations of Europe.

AT GLENDALE HIGH

Do the Juniors believe in all work and no play?

Well, one would hardly think so, considering the plans that are being made for that Junior party to be held at the home of Milton Z. Brown tomorrow evening.

With forty of those wide awake Juniors all in one house it is prophesied that things will be popping. There may be some of the Hallowe'en decorations left when the guests depart homeward, but it is safe to say that there will not if the decorations stand in the way of a good time.

Committees under the direction of the charming young host are preparing a program that will not leave an idle moment. Games and dancing will be enjoyed and although it is over a week before Hallowe'en the good spirit of that day will enter in to make for mirth and gaiety. Indeed the Juniors are to be envied on Friday night.

Socialist, Democrat and Republican club representatives met at noon yesterday to draw for positions on the schedule of programs to be given by the clubs. The Hughes club pulled the lucky number. Benson's followers got second and the Wilson delegation third.

The Wilson rally as the result of this meeting will be held on Friday, October 27. The Democrats of Glendale High invite the town to the auditorium on that date to witness the liveliest political campaign that Glendale ever saw.

A big surprise is promised and it will be worth the while of everyone to be on hand for the fun.

The Rostrum presented its second program Wednesday afternoon in the school auditorium. Samuel Durand, president of the organization presided. After a short address he presented Mrs. Louis Merten who charmed those present with a violin solo, accompanied by Mrs. Gibson, head of the music department.

Marion Lehman then spoke on Socialism. His address was featured by the usual attack on militarism, the capitalists and everything in general. He outlined not only the evils of affairs in our country, but also their remedies and quoted from the radical Socialist journals.

The main feature of the program was a debate on the question: "Resolved that Wilson's Mexican policy is justified." Merva Scott opened the debate for the affirmative. She showed the main principal of Wilson's policy and explained why they had won success for the administration.

Kenneth Lobdell spoke for the administration. He declared that Mexico has no government and claimed that intervention will fix up the whole matter.

Stanley Creswell came back with a speech that was a wonder, considering Stanley's size. One of his strong points in refuting the interventionists was the statement that aid instead of destruction was needed in Mexico.

Japan's plans in Mexico formed the main topic of Margaret Hutson's talk for the negative. If the U. S. controls Mexico, she said, 1000 miles of frontier country would be protected against Japanese invasion.

The affirmative team won the debate.

PAPER APPLIANCES

Advocating the increased use of paper appliances and utensils in the household, a food specialist states that there are now about thirty household articles made from vegetable parchment paper, among them ice blankets, dish cloths, and bed protectors. The housekeepers who have learned to use these articles, it is said agree that they could not possibly do their work comfortably without them.

KALEM COMPANY

The Kalem company is busy on the sixteenth episode of "The Girl from 'Frisco." This is one of the additional films demanded by the theaters throughout the country on account of the immense interest excited by the dramatic character of the different episodes. The California scenery and the remarkable settings of the different episodes have excited public curiosity.

Mr. Morton, the new manager of the railroad company, is finishing his work on another episode in the "Hazards of Helen," entitled "Forgotten Orders." This involves a forgotten train order and a chase of the wrongly dispatched train by the heroine in a pilot engine.

Mr. Horne gave a box party at the auditorium this week. His guests were Miss Cleo Ridgely, Miss Marin Sais and Hart Hoxie.

COMMANDERY TO ENTERTAIN

Glendale Commandery No. 53, Knights Templar, will entertain at dinner Friday night, all the Sir Knights of the commandery and their ladies and also all the Sir Knights of the Valley and their ladies. The dinner will be given in the Masonic Temple and will be quite an elaborate affair. Mattison B. Jones, Eminent Commander, will preside. Chas. Peckham is chairman of the purveying committee. A fine program of music and other items will be provided.

GARDEN SOCIETY MEMBERS

Among new members who have joined during the past week are the following:

Mrs. George W. W. Brown, 1431 Hawthorne.

Mrs. Delpha Miller, 149 East Third.

Mrs. Philip Parker, 331 South Central, Glendale.

Mrs. Mary Brookes, 103 North Louise.

Miss Irene Muller, 826 Columbus avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Winsel, 342 North Jackson.

Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Jamieson, residing at the Bertha apartments, while building a home on North Glendale foothills.

Everybody interested in gardening, flowers, nature, home and civic beauty are welcomed to join the ranks of the Garden society. Annual dues, 25 cents.

Two meetings a month and six floral contests in 1917.

KENSINGTON CLUB

The Kensington club, which is an auxiliary of the N. P. Banks Woman's Relief corps, met Wednesday, at the home of Mrs. Hartwig, Acacia street, Tropico. Thirty-five ladies were present. The afternoon was spent in fancy work.

Personals

Riley Lyons and family and W. G. Boyd and wife motored to Santa Ana Wednesday where they visited relatives.

Friends have learned from John Losh, who left Glendale a week ago for Arizona, that he is located at 365 N. Fourth avenue, Phoenix, Arizona.

Mrs. C. H. Henry of Tropico avenue and Brand boulevard, who has been suffering lately from an injured foot, is now considerably recovered.

basket picnic in honor of the event. The honored centenarian, though quite feeble, was well aware of what was going on and very anxious that there should be no rain that day.

Mrs. H. D Goss, Mrs. A. L. Weaver, Mrs. H. R. Boyer of Glendale and Mrs. Howard Martin of Los Angeles are luncheon guests of Mrs. A. D. Pearce, 1559 Milford St., today.

Mrs. Robert Danner of Gardena avenue, Tropico, who has been confined to her house with a somewhat severe illness, is now very much better and hopes soon to be able to be out again.

Miss Ruth Brown of Stocker street entertained as a week-end guest Miss Matilda Wachof of Los Angeles. Miss Wachof remained from Saturday till Monday and Miss Barbara Mitchell of Kenneth road was a guest on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs A. L. Weaver, 235 S. Kenwood, had as dinner guests, Wednesday Mr. and Mrs. Edgar F. Davis of Long Beach. After dinner the party motored to Los Angeles and attended the performance at the Orpheum.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Ragland are guests in the W. B. Kirk home, 718 West Broadway, Glendale. Mr. Ragland is a brother of Mrs. Kirk. Mr. and Mrs. Ragland are on their way to Arizona, where they will make their future home.

Riley Lyon of Lyon's grocery, 572 West Broadway, went to Santa Ana Wednesday, for a day's visit to his old partner, E. D. Johnson, who is now a contractor and builder in that city. This is the first time in three years that Mr. Lyon has been away from his own business.

Mr. W. D. McRae field agent of the Y. M. C. A., who has been at his home on Dryden street for a day or two, leaves Friday for the field in Tulare county. He will return shortly after having made some arrangements there and will take up work in some other field.

Mrs. W. F. Wood, 500 East Third St., just beyond Verdugo Road, will entertain the Glendale City Union October 20 at 2 o'clock. There will be an interesting program on the seven propositions to come on the ballot. This is an open meeting to all. Neighbors and friends are especially invited.

Mrs. George Eley of Lomita avenue, and her daughter, Mrs. Thomas of Alhambra, are visiting an old friend, Mrs. Brown, who is now resident in Los Angeles, having come from England to escape the constant anxiety about the Zeppelin raids which usually passed over her residence in Surrey.

Frank S. Chase, editor of the Glendale Press is the owner of a new Dodge Bros. touring car, having just purchased the same from the Howard Walker agency. The editor of The Evening News yet has a selection of car to make. What shall it be, an Overland, Maxwell, Chalmers, Oldsmobile, Briscoe, Hupmobile, Buick, Studebaker, Chandler, Hudson or Dodge?

W. H. Nicoles, 1101 W. Seventh street, who returned Tuesday from Medaryville, Indiana, where he had been attending the 100th anniversary of his father's birth, received word Thursday morning that his father had died. The news did not astonish the family here, as they were aware how feeble the centenarian had grown of late. Mr. Nicole's father, W. B. Nicoles, was born in Ohio, Sept. 14, 1816. He was therefore 100 years, one month and three days old when he died. He went to Medaryville, Ind., in 1856 and for the past sixty years was resident there. On the occasion of his 100th birthday celebration, Sept. 14, 1916, the town of Medaryville declared the occasion a public holiday and more than a thousand persons gathered at the Methodist Episcopal church and enjoyed a

Jesse Joseph, 1431 West First street, has just received word from Quebec that his sisters have erected a very handsome watering trough in front of the new Union Freight sheds, a busy spot in that city. The watering trough is a memorial of Mr. Joseph's father, Abraham Joseph, who was one of Quebec's leading citizens of the last generation. It is a large cast iron basin and bears a bronze tablet with the inscription, "Erected in Memory of the Late Abraham Joseph by His Daughters." The late Mr. Joseph was a great lover of horses and in his lifetime was a prominent member of the Quebec Tandem club. He was the founder of the wholesale firm of Joseph & Company, director of La Banque Nationale, president of the Stadacona bank and president of both the Quebec and Dominion Boards of Trade and was closely identified with the commercial life of the city.

SINGLE TAX MEETING

A Single Tax meeting was held at the Glendale High school auditorium Wednesday evening under the auspices of the Glendale Single Tax league in which Mrs. L. J. Robinson and Mrs. J. W. Durham are active workers. Prior to calling the meeting to order, Dr. I. H. Durfee was elected as chairman. Dr. Durfee in his introductory remarks stated that he was not serving in the capacity of chairman on account of his being a believer in all features of the Single Tax but he had accepted the position because he believes it is a good plan for everybody to become better informed upon a question like this that is before the people that they may be able to vote more intelligently upon it at the election November 7.

Mrs. J. W. Durham of West Glendale was introduced as the first speaker. Mrs. Durham advocated community co-operation and cited instances of the advantages gained by the city of Glendale becoming the owner of the light and water systems. She said that since the city has owned these systems property owners are not expected to pay $16 and $20 for meters as formerly and they also get a much lower service rate. Mrs. Durham is a strong advocate of an increased tax on unimproved land.

The next speaker, Charles James of Los Angeles, is a gentleman who has made a study of Henry George's land tax theory, and he believes that all increase in the value of land should be paid as a tax to keep up roads, schools and government expenses.

F. H. Moore, a Los Angeles attorney, spoke on the Single Tax proposition very enthusiastically and places at the door of the present tax system the cause for so much poverty and degradation in the world. Mr. Moore claims that there should be no such a thing as a tax placed on any property and that the money raised for defraying necessary expenses of building roads and keeping up schools and the like should be collected in the form of a rent paid by the users of the land. There should be no such a thing as a man or set of men becoming wealthy on account of the increases in the valuation of unused land. His claim is that the increase is brought about on account of improvements made by adjacent property owners and by people settling in the community in which this improved land is located.

Mr. Keuhn of Texas, who is temporarily a resident of Los Angeles for the purpose of expounding the good points in the Single Tax theory, spoke from the standpoint of a radical on this question. He can see no good in those who have attained great riches on account of coming in possession of vast acres of land. He declared that the system of allowing any one to become the owner of unimproved land and receive financial gain from the increase in price of that land is a robber, and such a citizen is worse than he who breaks into a house and steals a paltry sum of money. Mr. Keuhn gives as a reason why so many men are out of employment that it is impossible for them under present conditions to get onto the land. However it seemed to be the sentiment of many present that the majority of men out of employment are not anxious to get onto the land and remain there.

Many questions were asked by members of the audience all of which tended to cause people to give more serious thought to the Single Tax amendment which will be on the ballot November 7.

BIRTHDAY THEATRE PARTY

Mrs. W. R. Petty of 1443 Vine St. entertained a number of young ladies last Saturday afternoon in honor of her lovely young daughter, Alice, who celebrated her eleventh birthday on that date. A pink color scheme was most appropriate for the occasion, carnations and roses being used in abundance to produce a most dainty effect. A delicious one o'clock luncheon complete with a birthday cake was served, the girls finding their places by means of cards hand-adorned with kewpies. Following the luncheon the guests, chaperoned by Mrs. Petty, Mrs. F. E. Dow of Los Angeles and Mrs. Rose Cunningham, attended the performance at the Palace Grand theatre. The young ladies who participated in this pleasant affair were Misses Betty Warner, Doris Packer, Shirley and Glenn Hitchcock, Helen and Irene Robinson, Marjorie Sherman, Nell Hilbert and Marjorie Reed, Marie Hearnshaw, Annette Scott, Dorothy and Eva Leslie, Tamson Johnson, Ruth Leavitt, Doris Montgomery and the young hostess.

HILLIKER FUNERAL

The funeral services of B. F. Hilliker, member of Stanton Post, G. A. R., Los Angeles, will be held at Patriotic hall, 1816 South Figueroa street, Friday afternoon, October 20, at 2 o'clock. The deceased was known by all old soldiers as the drummer boy of Shiloh.

CHAPTER B., P. E. O.

There will be an all day meeting of Chapter B., P. E. O., Friday, October 20, at the home of Mrs. Frank Arnold, 532 Orange Grove avenue. Mrs. Freeman Kelley will assist the hostess.

Tolerance, though slow in flight, is strong-winged in the main.—Charles Dickens.

about 6:15 on Thursday morning, feeling rather travel stained and weary after an all night journey in which practically no sleep could be had.

I might state here that in all my train journeys in England I was constantly coming in contact with soldiers, as there is a constant coming and going of troops about London. There were four or five soldiers in the same compartment in which I traveled up to Hollyhead and one other civilian beside myself. The soldiers were Irish, home on leave or just discharged from the hospital, and looking forward to seeing the "ould sod" again. They entertained us with stories fresh from the trenches and revealed things to us that do not appear in the newspapers. One strapping big fellow—an Inniskilling fusilier, showed me five scars he had received from shrapnel, and told me he was just out of the hospital and dwelt upon the dishes of potatoes he was going to eat, the buttermilk he was going to drink and the raw eggs he was going to suck when he got back to the old farm home again. It did me good to see the pleasure with which they looked forward to getting home, if only for a brief spell.

When I reached Dublin from Hollyhead I caught the first train leaving for Belfast and arrived there about 10 o'clock the same morning, after an enjoyable train journey through the green fields and picturesque scenery of the east coast of Ireland.

My impressions of Belfast are varied and difficult to express. I was proud of the evidences on every hand of tremendous business activity, but wondered why there should be so much poverty in evidence. It looked as though the manufacturers were either making more than a legitimate profit or else selling their goods too cheaply and not allowing enough for the workers.

There are immense factories and workshops in Belfast. In the shipping yards alone 35,000 men are at present employed working day and night to help replace the ships Britain has lost in the war. New factories for the manufacture of munitions have sprung up and there is work for everyone.

Had I not been aware of the tremendous manufacturing record of Belfast, I might have been deceived as I strolled through the business streets the morning I arrived, so quiet were they; but the average Belfast man gets through an enormous amount of work in a quiet, matter-of-fact sort of way, and one really needs to get behind the scenes to realize the extent of what is being done. To illustrate the point, as I went into the salesroom of a big linen factory one morning two men were just coming out. The salesman informed me they were from Buenos Aires and had just placed an order running into thousands of pieces for export. "And we are just as likely to have a buyer from New Zealand, India or South Africa this afternoon. They come to us from all quarters of the globe," the salesman added.

Of course I spent all the time I could in the linen factories, informing myself regarding the present situation, and I found it a bad enough one. Manufacturers characterized it rather picturesquely as being "bloody awful."

There is a terrible scarcity of flax, as the supply from Courtroi, Belgium, upon which the manufacturers depended for their best quality yarn, has been entirely cut off, and although the farmers in the north have largely increased the acreage of flax, all they can supply is a mere flea bite to the quantity required.

The government is also requisitioning an immense yardage of fine spun linen for aeroplane sails, this being the direct reason for the great scarcity of round thread embroidery linens in the states at present.

Most of the manufacturers are keeping their looms busy weaving cotton goods and I was surprised at the extent to which they had gone into the weaving of cotton. One firm which prior to the war had taken pride in the fact that they were exclusively linen manufacturers, showed me a large variety of cotton damask tablecloths, replicas as to pattern of what they had formerly made in linen, and told me they were having a ready sale in England and the colonies.

I expressed a doubt as to whether the American housewife would be content to use cotton on her table, and they were quick to inform me that unless the war ended soon she would have no other alternative.

I found it possible to obtain quite a few things not to be had in New York, and regard my visit to Belfast profitable from a business standpoint.

The various processes through which the flax goes before it appears in the form of a piece of snowy linen, are very interesting and through the kindness of the manufacturers I had every opportunity of studying them. From the flax growing in the field, through the spinning and weaving factories, to the final bleaching and finishing, I saw it all and came away from Belfast with a more intelligent conception of the extent of the linen industry than I ever had before.

From Belfast I traveled down to Cork, a rather lazy little city in comparison, where the soft brogue of the Southern Irish delights the ear. There is not much in the city to interest the traveler, but its environs are delightful. Blarney Castle is just a short distance away and of course I took the opportunity of kissing the famous Blarney Stone, a comparatively easy feat for a long legged person like myself, but rather nerve racking for anyone that is short; a fact I plainly observed as I held the trembling legs of another aspirant to eloquence. To perform the feat one has to lie full length on his back and while someone holds his legs or sits on them, bend back over an opening, through which beforehand you have looked down a disconcerting distance to the ground below, and then touch with your lips the lower stone of the parapet. I only heard of one instance of a man falling in attempting the feat, and he, being drunk, escaped with a broken leg. Had he been sober—but then he probably wouldn't have fallen.

I saw Queenstown harbor, one of the finest in the world, and from which in normal times I could have sailed for America. But now it has an immense boom or net swung across its narrow entrance, and the shipping that passes through is very slight indeed.

I could go on at length describing my impressions of the south and its witty, hospitable people, with its hills of purple heather, its gleaming rivers and its fields of vivid green, but already I must have wearied you and I must desist.

To reach my boat at Liverpool it was necessary for me to travel via Dublin and Hollyhead again and I took the opportunity of spending a couple of days in Dublin, sightseeing and attending to a little business.

With a friend I walked down Sackville street and saw the ruins of that once imposing thoroughfare still showing naked and ugly since that ill fated rebellion in Easter week. Other quarters I visited where the marks of shot and shell can still be seen. My friend had been in Dublin all through the fighting, and was able to give me a personal and intimate account of the rebellion that gave an added touch of interest to the sights I saw.

There is a sharp division of opinion among the people of Ireland regarding the home rule question and it is plainly evident that the more prosperous and well-to-do all over Ireland are satisfied to leave things as they are, while from the poor, and God knows there are plenty of them, the Sinn Fein organization draws its strongest and most enthusiastic adherents. Whether the latter are poor through their own shiftlessness or not is the question that perplexes me and until I could be sure of the answer to that, the efficacy of home rule for Ireland would seem doubtful to me.

For the sake of variety I took my passage back on a British boat, the Cameronia, one of the Cunard fleet, and had the experience of slipping through the danger zone with a life belt handy and with a certain station assigned to me in one of the lifeboats. For two days the boats were swung out and not a light was allowed to show at night. For exactly a week we have had no news of the outside world, the wireless not being used, at least for publication, and I'm wondering what has transpired during that time.

I hope to be in Glendale a week or so after this letter and am looking forward with great anticipation to being home again.

Yours very sincerely,

JOHN B. M'BRATNEY.

W. H. Nicoles of 1101 West Seventh street returned yesterday from a nine weeks visit in Indiana, spending most of the time at Medaryville where his father recently celebrated his centennial birthday.

AL JENNINGS TO PREACH

Al Jennings, author of the famous narrative of his own life, entitled "Beating Back," which was published in the Saturday Evening Post, will preach in the First Baptist church, Sunday evening. Jennings, it will will be remembered, was converted in Glendale under the ministry of the Rev. John Troy. He immediately took up the work of an evangelist. He then, under the direction of the Rev. John Troy, preached in various parts of Southern California and finally went to New York, where he was met by the Rev. John Troy and put on the way to a wider evangelistic field.

Afterward he preached in Toronto, Canada; Brooklyn, St. Paul, Minneapolis, and Atlanta, Georgia. Everywhere he was well received and created a profound impression and conviction of his absolute sincerity and change of attitude.

Returning to Oklahoma, he was accorded a most hearty welcome by the Christian community of that place and received into their fellowship. Jennings is now in the second year of his ministry as an evangelist. Everywhere he speaks he is greeted by immense crowds. At the Temple Baptist church, Los Angeles, last Sunday he spoke to an audience of 5000 people while hundreds were turned away from the doors. Next Sunday he will preach in Trinity auditorium, Los Angeles, for Dr. Selecman.

Al Jennings has never forgotten the First Baptist church of Glendale, where he first saw the light of true religion. He is coming here on Sunday night in preference to going before a much larger audience.

GARDEN SOCIETY SOCIAL

This evening will be held a social meeting of the Glendale Garden society, beginning at 8 o'clock. Delightful music has been arranged. Mrs. Herman West accompanied by A. Henning and Miss Susine Wessels accompanied by Miss Gertrude Champlain, presenting charming vocal and violin solos respectively. Tea will be served under the direction of Miss Corinne Orff, Muss Jackson, Dorothy Woods and Grace Tower, with two young Glendale matrons to dispense the cup of cheer, Mrs. T. Stephens and Mrs. H. C. Barnard. An informal talk on Iris cultivation will be given by Professor Houdyshel who is an expert on cross fertilization.

The social is open to all members, friends and everyone interested in flowers in home or civic beauty; especially are newcomers invited, and those who wish to become acquainted with pleasant people.

The meeting will be held in the library of the Third street Intermediate school.

City Manager T. W. Watson has been confined to his home for several days on account of a severe cold.

LA CRESCENTA

Dr. Robinson, who was renting the Pollard cottage but was taken ill last week and had to be removed to the hospital is improving and expects to soon return.

According to reports received, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Reynolds are now homeward bound after their long journey and expect to arrive in La Crescenta about November 1.

The first regular meeting of the P. T. A. will be held at the school house next Friday, 3:30 p. m. All members are urged to attend.

Plans are being made by D. E. Wetherbee and Mr. Percy for the Sunland band to take part in the dry parade in Los Angeles next week.

At the home of Mrs. Miller, there will be a meeting of the Camp Fire Girls next Saturday afternoon, October 21.

A four inch main is being laid by the Sierra Verdugo Water company along Mayfield avenue east of Los Angeles avenue.

Announcement is made that the auditorium will be heated for the benefit of the patrons at the motion picture plays. A rip-roaring comedy of five reels called, "The Commuters" will be shown next Tuesday evening.

Mrs. William Gibbons who came to the valley to benefit her health passed away Friday night, October 13, 1916. She is survived by her mother, brother and husband.

A shipment of seventy new books to the La Crescenta library is announced by Mrs. Belle Miller, librarian. Among the books are the latest popular novels, juvenile stories, and two books of the present war with the latest photographs. There are also a number of books of travel and adventure included in the series.

Mrs. Culberson is enjoying a visit with her sister, Mrs. Mai Cooke of San Francisco. Mrs. Cooke expects to spend the entire winter in Southern California.

Harry Claflin has secured a position with the Western Wholesale Drug company of Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Scheuner have announced the engagement of their daughter, Meta, to Mr. Paul M. Krauter. Mr. Krauter is a successful young business man of Los Angeles. The wedding will take place at the Scheuner home on Dunsmore Ave., on November the eighteenth.

The Leenhouts are improving their ranch with a cozy little bungalow, which will be used exclusively by Miss Margaret for a play house.

Mrs. F. M. Scott spent Monday and Tuesday in Los Angeles.

Herbert Scheuner attended the Benson lecture at Los Angeles on Wednesday.

Mrs. Toschke has returned from the Burbank Hospital, feeling much improved in health.

The grape crop in the valley has been damaged considerably by the recent excessive rains. The wine grapes have been harvested and those who have table grapes will suffer mostly.

TUJUNGA

C. H. Clark of North San Ysidro road left Wednesday of last week to attend to business affairs in Los Angeles and elsewhere. He will probably be absent ten days.

George C. Buck returned home Tuesday of last week after several weeks absence on a visit to his home in Montana, near Monarch. He had intended spending several months visiting here and at his former home in Michigan but a blizzard struck Monarch before he left and he hastily reconsidered and decided to come back to Tujunga. However before his return he succeeded in selling his ranch for cash and then resold it for his purchaser at an advanced price on time. Mr. Buck says he expects to spend the remainder of his days in California.

Mrs. Ingalls of Los Angeles was a guest at the home of the Brissendens on San Ysidro road from Saturday till last Wednesday. Miss Alcy Case of San Bernardino, a cousin of Miss Brissenden was also their guest over Sunday at this home.

The Boosters' club meets Saturday October 21 at the school house at the hour of 7:30 p. m.

Mr. Harper of Baltimore who has been staying at the Kirschman's place for some time, expects to leave for his home the last of this week. Mr. Harper owns five acres of land adjoining Mr. Schwerer's five acre ranch.

The Bee Club meets next Monday evening, 7:30 o'clock, at the Dean Department Store on Sunset Boulevard.

Mrs G. J. Fischer's brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Curtin, of New York have come to Tejunga to spend some time. They are occupying Mr. Fischer's cottage on Michigan Ave. Mr. Curtin will assist Mr. Fischer in the management of the feed store. He is recovering from a recent siege of typhold fever and already feels the beneficent influence of our climate.

Mr. George H. Maxwell spent the week-end at the home of the Misses Atkinson and Richardson on Pine street, where he usually makes his headquarters when in Tujunga.

Board of Trade

Last Monday evening occurred the regular monthly meeting of the Board of Trade. The meetig was called to order at 8 o'clock by the President, Mr. P. J. Blake. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. Mr. Fred M. Ashby gave a report of the Foothills Valley federation, which is composed of the various commercial bodies of the several communities. On motion of Mr. Costello the action of the committee from our Board of Trade in this organization, was approved. A letter from Mr. Bohon, manager of the Montrose Railroad, to Mr. W. Barney Barkley, was read. Several constructions were put on the contents of this letter, which seemed quite ambiguous. It had reference to a bonus which the company think they are entitled to if they extend the road from its present terminus, La Crescenta, to Tujunga. Mr. Bohon offered, however, to meet a committee from here to confer with them in reference to this matter.

Report of treasurer of disbursements, $3.00 to Mr. Don Wieman for repairing the flag pole, 50c to Mr. Dean for canvas and $3.00 for expenses of committee of the Foothills Valley Federation and stationery.

A report from the Road and Signpost committee, by Mr. Costello, was to the effect that he had conferred with a representative of the Southern California Auto Club and that he said they would be very glad to put up signs in our vicinity. They promised to send someone up here to look over the roads to see just where the signs should be placed to the best advantage and to look over the valley in general. Mr. Costello also spoke of the advantage to be derived from membership of automobile owners in the Auto Club. The membership fee is $11.00 initiation and for the first six months and $1.00 per month thereafter. The cost of signs for our streets is estimated to be about $10.00.

The committee on electric lights reported that electric lights are to be extended to Monte Vista Heights in the east part of Tujunga.

There was considerable discussion by different ones on the subject of the contemplated electric railway. This subject kept bobbing up through the entire evening. There will probably be considerable more discussion before the railroad is an accomplished fact. Mr. Blake took up the subject of the advantage to be derived by the whole district because of the federation of the valley which, working in unison, may accomplish the building of the several needed bridges and probably the building of the concrete road from Roscoe to Sunland and many other necessary improvements.

It has been ascertained that milk may be supplied from the Bullock dairy, which can be sent to La Crescenta, but will have to be brought from that point to Tujunga by auto. Mr. J. T. Ward, manager of the store will perhaps arrange for the delivery of the milk.

Mr. Darlington was appointed a committee to see to the provision of conveyances for those voters who are unable to walk to the polls on November 7th.

Mr. Bell, on Monte Vista Boulevard, is adding very much to the appearance of his house by building up to the windows with stone veneer.

Mr. Darling, who recently purchased the Teel property on San Ysidro Road, is making quite extensive improvements on that place. He has moved the house back a number of feet and enlarged it by adding a room or two and a bath, a stone chimney and by weatherboarding the whole house, putting in casement windows and a French door. The house will be veneered with stone as high as the windows. The doctor has also had a garage built.

Mr. Behrens of Monte Vista Boulevard, has torn away his old house and is building a complete and much larger dwelling, which will add much to the appearance of that neighborhood.

Two strangers, whose names we did not learn, last week purchased a tract in the Big Tujunga Wash, where they contemplate going into the squab business. They expect to raise all their own feed, which will be some undertaking. It is reported that these men have purchased considerable stock of Mr.W. G. Paul with which to start their pigeon plant.

Town Meeting

At the town meeting Tuesday evening Mr. Rocky, secretary of the Medicinal Club, read a very interesting letter from Dr. Barns, of Gardena pertaining to the crop of calendula that was sent to him from the harvest of that club. There were 14 pounds in all, amounting to $6.30. Mr. Rocky has discovered a very simple way to separate the petals from the flower, making the harvesting of the plant very easy. Mr. Rocky says he thinks another year the crop may be made to pay a nice little sum and he feels encouraged to try it again. After November 1st the calendula will bring 50 cents a pound.

There was some discussion about the $15,000,000 bond issue to be voted upon in November and also the 1st and 2nd amendments.

Mrs. E. B. Carrol, who formerly lived in the Maxwell house, was in town for the day last Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fillinger and their sons, Earl and Earnest, of Tropico, visited Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Carr of Greely Ave. last Sunday.

Mrs. Marston sends word to Dr. Kearney that Mr. Marston is improving somewhat, though very slowly.

Mr. Lyman Maxwell, who was taken very ill while on a visit to his old home in Illinois, apparently is no better. His condition is very grave. Mr. Maxwell's wife and daugher are at his bedside.

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall N. Bird of Los Angeles, spent Sunday with W. A. Fitzgerald of Michigan avenue. On June 5th Mr. and Mrs. Bird started from Los Angeles to Nova Scotia in a Ford touring car. They made the round trip to Mr. Fitzgerald's home in four months and ten days, covering 8037 miles. They camped every night during the entire journey and thoroughly enjoyed the experience.

Our population is to be added to some time during the winter by the presence of Mr. and Mrs. Nils J. Sterner of Vancouver, Washington. Mr. Sterner came down this week to look over the slopes of Tujunga, having heard a great deal of it, and was so charmed that he purchased the acre lot No. 359 adjoining Mr. Paul's place, and after returning to Vancouver, expects to bring his family here later this winter.

Nearly one hundred guests were present at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Zook, 965 N. Holliston Ave., Pasadena, to witness the wedding of their charming daughter, Miss Josephine, last Saturday evening, to Dr. Edwin M. Spates of Los Angeles.

The home was beautifully and artistically decorated, the color scheme being pink and white. Smilax, Cecil Bruener and pink roses were used in profusion. The petite dainty bride was most beautiful in white satin, square train, trimmed in rare old point lace, an heirloom of the family, and tulle veil and carried white orchids and lillies of the valley.

After the ceremony and reception, supper was served to about eighty guests, the supper room presenting a beautiful sight, the same festooning of smilax, and pink Cecil Bruener roses being used and the walls banked with ferns and the shaded pink candles on guests' tables lending a subdued color to all surroundings.

The bride's table was an especially pretty affair with its center piece of roses and maiden hair ferns. Seated at this table were the bride and groom, Messrs. Wm. P. Nestle, Glenn C. Bown, Harold Boynton and the Misses Ruth Barclay, Margaret Pittman, Mrs. Isabelle C. Anthony and Phil Chester Bostic.

The happy couple was the recipient of many beautiful presents, both from those present as well as eastern friends.

The wedded pair left immediately after the supper for a motor trip and after November fifteenth will be at home at Rancho Hinata, a charming attractive country home in the foothills near Sunland, where they expect to reside except during the rainy season, when they will occupy apartments in town. A happy and brilliant future is assured this fortunate couple, who are beginning married life under the most favorable circumstances.

DENTAL PREPAREDNESS

What is the most important attribute of a soldier?
Good feet?
No.
Good eyesight?
No.
Good brains?
No.
What then?
Good teeth.

A soldier may have good feet, good eyesight, and good brains, but if he has bad teeth, he can't eat. If he can't eat he can't march near enough to the enemy to see him and use his brains to fight him.

How do children keep good teeth?

Through being taught by their mother how to keep their teeth clean and having their teeth looked after while they are growing. This makes good teeth for future soldiers.

It would seem then as though the first patriotic duty of a mother was to keep her children's teeth in good condition.

It is.

A BIRD VISITOR

Among newcomers to Glendale we note with pleasure the arrival of Mr. and Mrs. White Crowned Sparrow, accompanied by numerous friends and relatives. Seeking the salubrious climate of California during the winter, these handsome and distinguished visitors arrive in the month of October. Many of them have selected as their favorite dining rooms the vacant lots on the corner of First and Brand, where delicious pickings are to be had. One has to look closely and keenly to perceive the busy eaters, for like the toads their plumage almost matches the color of the ground; but careful search is well rewarded, for their coloring and stripes are remarkably handsome. Members of the Bird and Flower club should begin to take note of migratory visitors.

SEW FOR CHARITY

A special all day meeting of Chapter L., P. E. O., met at the home of the Chairman of the Philanthropic committee, Mrs. Temple, on Orange street on Wednesday. Several garments were finished for the needy and more work was laid out and planned for the next all day meeting.

LA CANADA

Doll Williams has purchased a 1917 Ford roadster from Anderson & Green. After running his old car it certainly is a pleasure to run a new car that is as easy as the Ford. Mr. Williams is more than pleased with his recent purchase.

Miss Alta Lea was the honored guest on Wednesday of last week when a number of the boys and girls of the valley gathered at her home and wished her many happy returns of the day. Miss Lea will always keep this eighth birthday in her memory, because of the happy afternoon spent. Games were enjoyed during the afternoon. Dainty refreshments of punch, cakes and candy were served. Those who enjoyed the afternoon were Pearl and Robert Stutman, Louise and James Cecil, Alma and Jack Armstrong, John and Edith Kraus, Joe Famularo, Edith Moses, Roma Penfield and Violet Hall.

About twelve young people went to Sunland last Thursday evening and called on Miss Rowena Green. The happy party made the trip in machines and they took their supper with them. A happy evening was spent and at a late hour, the party journeyed home.

The Thursday Afternoon club held their first meeting of the season at the home of Mrs. H. L. Cooper on last Thursday. The program for the coming year was outlined by Mrs. Guidinger and the club will continue the study of the operas and will also take up the legends and myths of California and also our island possessions. Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess and everyone agreed with the president that the afternoon was spent in a very educational and pleasant way.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hood and R. G. Hood gave a very interesting account of their recent motor trip through Nevada, Utah, Colorado, New Mexico and Arizona. Leaving Los Angeles they took the northern auto route through Antelope valley and Owens valley. Mr. Hood was very favorably impressed with Owens valley and says the Los Angeles aqueduct which parallels the road in many places was one of the most interesting things they saw. Leaving Owens valley they crossed into Nevada, stopping at Goldfield and Tonopah, thence by way of Ogden and Salt Lake City, where they spent several weeks. On the return trip they came by the southern route through New Mexico and Arizona. They stopped at Grand Canyon visiting with C. H. Hood and sight seeing. Mr. Hood reports the main roads fairly good, but says that many of the roads over which they traveled were little more than trails. They lost their way in the Navajo Indian reservation and after running for fourteen hours found that they were only nineteen miles from the point at which they entered the reservation, almost out of water and with less than one quart of gasoline. Mr. Hood is more than ever a Ford booster as he made the trip over mountains and desert roads with no engine trouble and with but two punctures. The trip was a very pleasant one in every way.
